

TREND DOOR HOLDER

No doubt most of us will have seen a crude 'knocked-up on site' version of this very useful door hanging aid, but this quality item from specialists Trend will put them all in the shade. Made from rugged welded steel, and surfaced with a generous number of rubber feet, the Trend Door Stand can be used in any orientation and will hold doors from 30-60mm (1½-2½in) thick. As well as providing a secure way of holding a door while its edges are shot in and hinges sunk, it is also – courtesy of its clamping knob – capable of holding the door near vertical while the tricky first hinge is screwed to the frame. I found its long 'legs' or stabilisers could also be stood on to provide additional support while fitting a mortise lock to an existing door in situ.
