

TREND PRT

The latest incarnation of Trend's Professional Router Table includes just about everything you need for serious routing. It has a good sized alloy table with a set of leg extensions and may either be used bench mounted or floor standing. The table top is well equipped with four separate grooves to fit the mitre fence or pressure guards. There are three positions for mounting the fence and the central panel is removable to make fitting the router easier. The table is designed for routers with the Trend base configuration but can be re-drilled. The test table came equipped with the new Trend T11 router that has a built-in router raising mechanism. The table top is drilled to take this height adjuster handle. The fence is impressive with supportive alloy cheeks which are adjustable. A central cutter guard is incorporated and also a hold down. A 57mm dust extraction port is mounted on the rear of the fence. Four insert plastic insert rings are included and the maximum cutter aperture is a healthy 90mm.

A metal mitre fence is supplied which is adjustable with fixed stops at all the most common positions. It's also drilled to accept a wooden false fence, if required. Includes standard NVR.

• The whole unit is large enough to provide good workpiece support while still being light enough to transport. Great fence set-up and a good companion to the T11 if you have the cash
